

CUET BST Exam-Intelligence Report

Historical PYQ analysis only. This is not a guaranteed prediction of future CUET papers.

Method Used

The system first collects public PYQ rows, preserves raw files, parses questions/options, then deduplicates copied questions into canonical question IDs. Each canonical question is classified with a hybrid ensemble: syllabus keyword rules, TF-IDF/BM25 retrieval against the CUET BST taxonomy, embedding-style similarity, and optional OpenAI-compatible LLM classification. Final study rankings use canonical unique questions, source reliability weights, recency weights, cross-year consistency, cross-shift consistency, question-pattern diversity, NCERT directness, and weak Reddit/community sentiment.

How To Use This Report

Start with high-ROI and high-priority topics, then practice the dominant question pattern for each topic. For example, if a concept mostly appears as case diagnosis, learn examples and identification cues, not just definitions. Rows still marked for review should be treated as useful AI suggestions rather than final truth until manually checked.

Learning how to manage debt is what can put you ahead. Taking on the right amount of debt can mean the difference between a business struggling to survive and one that can respond nimbly to changing economic or market conditions. A number of circumstances may justify acquiring debt. As a general rule, borrowing makes the most sense when you need to bolster cash flow or finance growth or expansion. But while debt can provide the leverage you need to grow, too much debt can strangle your business. So the question is: How much debt is too much?

tion	27	17.55	15.21	Q.49 Passage 2: The Software Giant – Wipro Technology On the basis of the following passage, answer the Q. No. 46 to Q. No. 50 It's not quite there yet, but the goal is certainly within reach. One of India's largest IT solutions providers, Wipro Technologies, is taking on the likes of IBM and Accenture in its effort to be included among the largest and most successful technology services companies in the world. Restructuring Wipro was considered the most important step in becoming a global giant, driven by the goal towards improved customer orientation. During the past few months, Wipro separated itself into several subsidiaries by product line: telecommunications, engineering, financial services, etc. Each subsidiary brings in about $300 million in annual earnings and is self-sufficient with their own accounting books, personnel and administrative functions. This policy of company reduces the workload as well as enhances productivity because of the specific workers performing a specific job on a regular basis. Such a practice at Wipro further resulted in avoidance of duplication of work, helps in preventing confusion and minimising the wastage of efforts. Wipro shifted from a centralised to decentralised management system. All responsibilities for growth lay with the management of each entity. "We tried to de-layer the organisation and empower our business leaders with a much higher degree of growth responsibility," said Premji. This practice gives the employee requisite time to explore areas for growth and the opportunity to innovate thereby strengthening the company's competitive position. The authority dispersal develops in the subordinate the ability to deal effectively with challenges and helps them to realise their full potential. "Such a practice at Wipro further resulted in avoidance of duplication of work and helps in preventing confusion and minimising wastage of efforts". Identify the significance of the function of management highlighted in the aforesaid statement.

ment	24	15.6	13.52	Q.43 Read the following passage carefully and answer the given questions. Apex Solutions, a mid-sized technology firm, recently embarked on a mission to expand its workforce due to increased demand for its services. The company's staffing process began with workforce planning, identifying the need to hire 30 new employees across various departments, including software development, sales, and customer support. The HR team outlined the required qualifications, experience levels, and skill sets for each role. The recruitment phase involved a mix of strategies. Apex Solutions posted job advertisements on popular job boards and their company website. They also leveraged employee referrals and collaborated with a recruitment agency to attract a diverse pool of candidates. Within two weeks, they received over 500 applications. The selection process was meticulously designed to ensure the best fit. Initial screening eliminated candidates who didn't meet the basic criteria. Shortlisted candidates underwent online aptitude tests and technical assessments. The top performers were invited for panel interviews, where their problem-solving abilities, technical expertise, and cultural fit were evaluated. Finally, background checks and reference verification were conducted for the selected candidates. By following a structured staffing process, Apex Solutions successfully hired 30 new employees who aligned with the company's strategic goals. This approach minimized hiring errors and enhanced team productivity. What is one benefit Apex Solutions achieved through their staffing process?
